

Rockville Memorial Library

Saturday, January 21, 2012
at 2:00 PM

Alcione Amos, Museum Program Specialist, Smithsonian Institution,
Anacostia Community Museum, will speak about the exhibition

“Lorenzo Dow Turner: From Lincoln Park to Leading Scholar”

Dr. Lorenzo Dow Turner
(1890-1972)

Dr. Lorenzo Dow Turner (1890-1972) was the first African American linguist and a founder of the field of African American Studies. Dr. Turner lived in the Lincoln Park community of Rockville and was educated in the Montgomery County segregated public schools where his father taught. This exhibition brings Dr. Turner home.

In collaboration with the Smithsonian Anacostia Museum, the Montgomery County Public Libraries' Lincoln Park History Project and The Rockville Chapter of the Friends of the Library announce “Lorenzo Dow Turner: From Lincoln Park to Leading Scholar” on display at the Rockville Memorial Library, January - February, 2012.

Rockville Memorial Library
21 Maryland Ave.
Rockville, MD 20850
www.montgomerycountymd.gov

To request this flyer in an alternate format or to request ADA program accommodations contact your library five work days in advance.
For further information call 240-777-0140

